be a part of our latex paint recycling initiative

Habitat Lehigh Valley ReStore has developed a sustainable, flourishing, recycling program focused on benefiting our environment and local community. The HLV ReStore accepts donations of reusable latex paint and recycles it into a new product called “recolor”. This new paint helps our continuous effort to raise funds for Habitat Lehigh Valley’s home building program and local families. Our recycling program gives Lehigh Valley residents a way to responsibly get rid of usable latex paint which, additionally, keeps paint out of our landfills and water sources. In turn, this program assists with the environmental success of our community’s future. Most importantly, the sale of this high quality, recycled latex paint at our ReStore, creates a future for the children of our community by helping families build strength, stability and self-reliance through shelter.
